

50 Days of Food & Fun

Welcome Home Julie

It's good to have Julie Parette back with us this week. She enjoyed a much needed week away in France with her sister, Kara. Julie is doing a great job in the kitchen. Look forward to some menu changes in the future to give the children a little more variety. And yes... you grandmas... dessert is on the menu now & then.

Thanks to Glen Lyle

A huge thanks goes out to Glen Lyle for serving as Site Supervisor & Food Production Manager in Julie's absence. You were enjoyable to work with and we learned much from your experience in a commercial kitchen. We also learned a lot about your big heart and servant's attitude towards the children. Glen will continue to assist in the kitchen when he is available.

Tulsa City-County Library

The Tulsa Library has agreed to allow our children to participate in the Children's Summer Reading Program. Our librarians have taken on the task of keeping reading records on each of the children. A county librarian comes to our building twice a month to transfer our reading records to their official log. All children that visit our library four times and read, or have read to them, eight books will receive a medal and coupons. A bonus prize can be earned by reading additional books. The county librarian will conduct an awards assembly the last week of 50 Days of Food & Fun.

"Let the little children come to me, and do not hinder them, for the kingdom of God belongs to such as these."

Week 3

Hats Off To Hannah!

Hannah Hoffmeister has become a hero to us all! Hannah is here faithfully every-day to be a special friend to Alex. Without Hannah, 50 Days of Food & Fun would not run so smoothly. Alex is an active, lovable little boy with a voracious appetite. With Hannah's help, he attends class everyday and has the opportunity to interact with his peers. Hannah you truly have a special gift. Thanks so much!

Community Impact

We have two special, middle school aged volunteers among us. These are neighborhood kids that have asked to help out. They are Kaitlynn and Nancy. Both are giving their time to work with the kids. Their parents have expressed gratitude for allowing them the opportunity to do something "good" with their summer. Several other parents have expressed thanks for a quality program; a safe & nurturing place for their kids to spend time this summer. You make God smile!

Kite, Kites & More Kites

Last Tuesday, with the aid of the middle school, each child had opportunity to fly a kite. The weather cooperated; we had a light breeze. All had fun. Each child took home a kite at the end of the day. Thanks to Out of Eden & the Timothy Class.
