

50 Days of Food & Fun

June Is Almost Over

Week 4

It's amazing to me that we have already spent four weeks with the kids. There are no longer 50 Days of Food & Fun left, but only 30. The summer is passing so quickly. July is quickly filling up with special activities.

4th of July

We will celebrate the 4th of July on Friday the 3rd. I appreciate all of you that have volunteered for Friday knowing most will have family at home enjoying a day off for the holiday. Plans for the day, though fun for the kids, will actually take more volunteers than usual. Feel free to bring your family with you on Friday to enjoy our celebration. If you are not signed up to work on Friday but would like to be a part of the fun, we'd love to have you. If you can volunteer, please let me know, so I will know how many I have committed to the day.

Holiday Activities

On Friday the kids will be divided into six groups instead of four (see below). They will need more guidance than usual shifting from one class to the next since the daily schedule will change. The normal "games class" will be bowling on Friday, which will take several helpers since they will be bowling several lanes at a time. At least two additional people will be needed to man the Jupiter Jump & basketball on the OC Floor. The rest of the activities should be able to be manned by those already scheduled. Red, white & blue will be the uniform of the day, so don't forget. A special menu is planned & fun for all!

Empty 2-Liters w/ Caps

Leave them in the box by the elevator.
